

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 2

KU GEOGRAPHY & ATMOSPHERIC SCIENCE

COLLOQUIUM

INDIGENOUS ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE, KNOWLEDGE AND LAW

DEBORAH MCGREGOR

Associate Professor
Osgoode Hall Law School and Environmental Studies,
York University; Canada Research Chair in Indigenous Environmental Justice

Please join us on Friday, February 2, as we welcome Dr. Deborah McGregor, Osgoode Hall Law School and Environmental Studies, York University and Canada Research Chair in Indigenous Environmental Justice. McGregor's presentation will explore ideas for how to advance the theory and practice of environmental justice scholarship by engaging with Indigenous intellectual and legal traditions. By grounding Indigenous EJ in Indigenous epistemological and ontological foundations, a distinct framework will emerge. It is anticipated (and hoped) that such engagement will lead to a deeper understanding of Indigenous EJ and more importantly how to visualize achieving justice.

Colloquium will be at 4:00 p.m. in Lindley Hall, room 317, with a meet and greet at 3:30 p.m. in Lindley Hall, room 205. All are welcome to attend. Special thanks to the KU Institute for Policy & Social Research and Kansas EPSCoR.

FRIDAY, FEB. 2
4:00 PM

LINDLEY HALL Room 317

www.geography.ku.edu

