

Andy Allison

Andy Allison is a private health care consultant living in the Little Rock area. He served in the Arkansas Department of Human Services as the state Medicaid Director from December 2011 through May 2014, helping to establish the state's innovative health care payment reforms and leading the design and implementation of the "Private Option" coverage expansion. From 2005 until 2011 he ran or oversaw Kansas' Medicaid and State Employee Health Plans, helping lead the decision and planning process for Kansas' comprehensive new Medicaid managed care program. From 1999 to 2005 he was a researcher focusing on coverage, churning, and state health policy issues at the Kansas Health Institute. He also served as a Medicaid budget analyst at the federal Office of Management and Budget from 1992-1995, providing staff analysis of federal health reform legislation and reviewing statewide Medicaid waiver applications. He was the founding Board President for the National Association of Medicaid Directors and served in that position from 2010 through 2012. He holds a bachelor's degree from Ouachita Baptist University in Arkansas, a master's degree in Public Policy from Duke, and a doctorate in economics from Vanderbilt.
